

The twelve animals in the year of the Metal Tiger

Copyright: Dr. Jes Lim & Daniela Schenker

The animals combining with the Tiger year are the Pig, the Horse, and the Dog. These animals are into a year of harmony. Also people born in a year ruled by the metal element will benefit more. However, always check the personal Chinese astrology for further fine-tuning.

RAT

The slow ox year was a challenge for the Rat, but this year with its faster pace is sometimes not so easy for the careful Rat either. Your travel plans will be supported, but financial progress is slow. Avoid confrontation and emphasise on harmonic relationships. The Dragon year of 2012 will be more powerful for the Rat.

---

OX

The Ox would like to continue its stable and steady pace, but the Tiger energy will accelerate him and create unexpected developments. The Ox needs to adapt to new routines first but will also start to discover and develop new personal powers and potentials. This is a good year for relationships and romance.

TIGER

Being the Tiger's own year, 2010 holds exciting events for those born under this sign, both personally and professionally. After some struggle and possible disappointments of the last year, the Tiger can focus on a more promising future. Tigers have good prosperity in 2010 as well as new business opportunities especially in spring. As everything accelerates this year, all plans and projects need to be thought through. This is also a year of romance!

RABBIT

According to Chinese astrology, The Tiger brings the "Flower of Romance" energy to rabbit people, so they will enjoy good relationships and meet new people. The Rabbit should get ready for new career and promotion opportunities. His travel plans are well supported. The Rabbit may also like to make changes about his living arrangements. As the pace of the Tiger year is quite draining, Rabbits should take care of their health.

DRAGON

The Dragon finds the upward pace of 2010 very much to their liking and looks forward to new opportunities. Dragons can improve their career progress by focussing more on teamwork. The Tiger year promises financial abundance. As the Dragon will be very busy and must also consider some worries and thwarted plans, it is important for him to take a rest from time to time.

SNAKE

The sensitive Snake has to face more turbulences this year and should take care of their health. The Tiger year may bring unexpected developments and competition and the Snake has to adapt to the situation and fall back on what they have been building beforehand. It is good to seek some advice and spend time with friends and family to regenerate. They are more lucky in their private lives.

HORSE

The Year of the Tiger will be an exciting year for the Horse. On the home and family front, there may be some changes. It is a welcomed guest at parties and events. Travel luck is excellent and there may be sudden positive changes. However, the horse should not let itself be carried away by the strong Tiger energy, but control its temper and avoid relationship conflicts.

SHEEP

In the year of the Tiger the Sheep will discover new powers and potentials. Creative sheep can start new projects and find new ways of business. If the Sheep makes careful decisions, this may point the way for new long-term business opportunities. In spring and autumn the social opportunities are great. However, the Sheep should be careful about their finances and seek some outside advice.

---

MONKEY

The Monkey is facing some challenges as the Tiger is their enemy sign. They should be more careful when travelling and prevent exhaustion. In the beginning of the year, there may be changes in their career. The family may create some pressure, but summer and autumn time are good for making new friends and enjoying romance.

ROOSTER

The year of the Tiger is rather exhausting for the Rooster and brings all kinds of changes. The high work performance of the Rooster is finally acknowledged and in autumn there may be a change in career. Roosters should make sure to take care of their health, relax from time to time and enjoy their travel and family luck.

DOG

As a friend of the Tiger the Dog can look forward to new social opportunities and friendships. Dogs have finally survived the rather worrisome year of the Ox. The second half of the year is financially more promising and the Dog can enjoy further progress at work. As "servants to humankind", Dogs may want to contribute on a greater level to improve the world for the better.

PIG

The Pig can look forward to a basically auspicious year, as they are also harmonically linked with the Tiger. The Pigs enjoys good career stars. However, Pigs should continue to be careful about their finances and make good plans. As far as relationships are concerned, the Pig should be more selective about people to avoid wrong advice. Otherwise, 2010 is an inspiring year with opportunities for further studies and exciting short trips.
